5. Describe the presumptive eligibility screening process:

All authorized qualified entity employees are required to learn, review, and understand the criteria for all Medicaid categories. Using the presumptive eligibility online portal, an authorized qualified entity employee will gather data from the individual such as name, state residency, citizenship, household composition, and income. This information may be self-attested by the individual. The authorized qualified entity employee may not request any documentation or require verification of the information provided.

Each qualified entity will be monitored against a "presumptive eligibility error rate" performance standard, which is the rate at which a qualified entity deems children presumptively eligible for Medicaid, but the individuals are determined to be ineligible for full Medicaid coverage. The presumptive eligibility error rate must be less than seven and one-half percent of approved cases for children in a calendar month. If the qualified entity has an error rate greater than seven and one-half percent in a calendar month, the qualified entity must submit a corrective action plan to the Department of Medicaid specifying the steps the qualified entity will take to reduce its presumptive eligibility error rate, including details about training required as part of the corrective action plan. The qualified entity must also provide training for all of its staff who make presumptive eligibility determinations to ensure their thorough knowledge of presumptive eligibility prescreening procedures. The training shall occur for each month the qualified entity's presumptive eligibility error rate exceeds seven and one-half percent.

Applicants are allowed only one presumptive eligibility determination per 12-month period. The authorized qualified entity employee will attempt to verify current Medicaid coverage and past use of presumptive eligibility coverage via the online portal. If current Medicaid coverage or past presumptive eligibility coverage is not able to be verified, the employee will rely on the individual's self-attestation.

The authorized qualified entity employee must provide the individual with a notice of the presumptive eligibility determination. Additionally, the authorized qualified entity employee must assist the applicant in completing and submitting an application for ongoing Medicaid coverage.

E. Presumptive Eligibility Determination

The presumptive eligibility determination is based on the following factors:

- 1. Household income must not exceed the applicable income standard for the child's age, described in Section A.
- a. A reasonable estimate of MAGI-based income is used to determine household income.
- b. Gross income is used to determine household size.
- 2. State residency

Description

Each hospital will be monitored against a "presumptive eligibility error rate" performance standard, which is the rate at which a hospital deems pregnant women and/or children presumptively eligible for Medicaid, but the individuals are determined to be ineligible for full Medicaid coverage. The presumptive eligibility error rate must be less than seven and one-half percent of approved cases for pregnant women and/or children in a calendar month. If the hospital has an error rate greater than seven and one-half percent in a calendar month, the hospital must submit a corrective action plan to the Department of Medicaid specifying the steps the hospital will take to reduce its presumptive eligibility error rate, including details about training required as part of the corrective action plan. The hospital must also provide training for all of its staff who make presumptive eligibility determinations to ensure their thorough knowledge of presumptive eligibility prescreening procedures. The training shall occur for each month the hospital's presumptive eligibility error rate exceeds seven and one-half percent.

D. Presumptive Eligibility Period

- 1. The presumptive period begins on the date the determination is made.
- 2. The end date of the presumptive period is the earlier of:
 - The date the eligibility determination for regular Medicaid is made, if an application for Medicaid is filed by the last day of the month following the month in which the determination of presumptive eligibility is made; or
 - The last day of the month following the month in which the determination of presumptive eligibility is made, if no application for Medicaid is filed by that date.
- 3. Periods of presumptive eligibility are limited as follows:
- a. No more than one period within a calendar year.
- b. No more than one period within two calendar years.
- o. No more than one period within a six-month period, starting with the effective date of the initial presumptive eligibility period.
- od. No more than one period within a twelve-month period, starting with the effective date of the initial presumptive eligibility period.
- e. Other reasonable limitation:

Name of limitation	Description
Presumptive Pregnancy	No more than one presumptive eligibility span per pregnancy
All non-pregnancy presumptive	No more than one presumptive eligibility span per twelve-month period, starting with the effective date of the initial presumptive eligibility span

5. Describe the presumptive eligibility screening process:

All authorized hospital employees are required to learn, review, and understand the criteria for all Medicaid categories. Using the presumptive eligibility online portal, an authorized hospital employee will gather data from the individual such as name, state residency, citizenship, household composition, and income. This information may be self-attested by the individual. The authorized hospital employee may not request any documentation or require verification of the information provided.

Applicants are allowed only one presumptive eligibility determination per 12-month period or, if pregnant, per pregnancy. The authorized hospital employee will attempt to verify current Medicaid coverage and past use of presumptive eligibility coverage via the online portal. If current Medicaid coverage or past presumptive eligibility coverage is not able to be verified, the employee will rely on the individual's self-attestation.

The authorized hospital employee must provide the individual with a notice of the presumptive eligibility determination. Additionally, the authorized hospital employee must assist the applicant in completing and submitting an application for ongoing Medicaid coverage.

F. Presumptive Eligibility Determination

The presumptive eligibility determination is based on the following factors:

- 1. The individual's categorical or non-financial eligibility for the group for which the individual's presumptive eligibility is being determined (e.g., based on age, pregnancy status, status as a parent/caretaker relative, disability, or other requirements specified in the Medicaid state plan or a Medicaid 1115 demonstration for that group)
- 2. Household income must not exceed the applicable income standard for the group for which the individual's presumptive eligibility is being determined, if an income standard is applicable for this group.
- a. A reasonable estimate of MAGI-based income is used to determine household income.
- b. Gross income is used to determine household size.
- c. Other income methodology
- 3. State residency
- 4. Citizenship, status as a national, or satisfactory immigration status

H. Additional Information (optional)

Ohio requires a "presumptive eligibility error rate" performance standard, which is the rate at which a qualified entity deems pregnant woman and/or children presumptively eligible for Medicaid, but the individuals are ultimately determined ineligible for full Medicaid. The presumptive eligibility error rate must be less than seven and one-half percent of presumptively-enrolled pregnant woman and/or children in a calendar month.

Ohio will be ending the standards for qualified entities regarding presumptive eligibility for pregnant woman and/or children that required eighty-five percent of recipients to submit an application for full/ongoing Medicaid within ninety days of the presumptive eligibility approval and the requirement that eighty-five percent of those applications must result in a full Medicaid determination.

For all other categories of presumptive eligibility, Ohio will continue to require that eighty-five percent of all recipients submit an application for full/ongoing Medicaid within ninety days of approval and that eighty-five percent of all applications received from presumptive eligibility recipients must result in a full Medicaid determination.
