Effective Communication of Eligibility Determinations: Model Eligibility Results Pages

Setting the Stage

Notices must communicate important but complex information

- ✓ Basis of eligibility determination
- ✓ Next steps for consumers
- ✓ How consumers can use their coverage
- ✓ Legal rights and responsibilities

Consumers do not always understand their eligibility determination or the next steps they need to take (e.g., when and how to use their coverage, next steps to complete eligibility determination process, and/or next steps to enroll in a QHP)

Some consumers are not reading notices at all

Some States Have Not Been Able to Improve Their Notice Systems/Content as They Have Wanted

“We have done all this work to streamline the application process, but there is a large gap in communicating with the family after initial application.”

“We have struggled to figure out how to clearly communicate what programs consumers are eligible for, and timelines and processes for transitioning between Medicaid and Marketplace coverage.”

“It is confusing for consumers to get separate eligibility notices from the Marketplace and Medicaid/CHIP.”

Create a way to communicate to consumers key messages and quick takeaways on their health coverage eligibility and next steps

Consumer completes online application with State Medicaid/CHIP agency

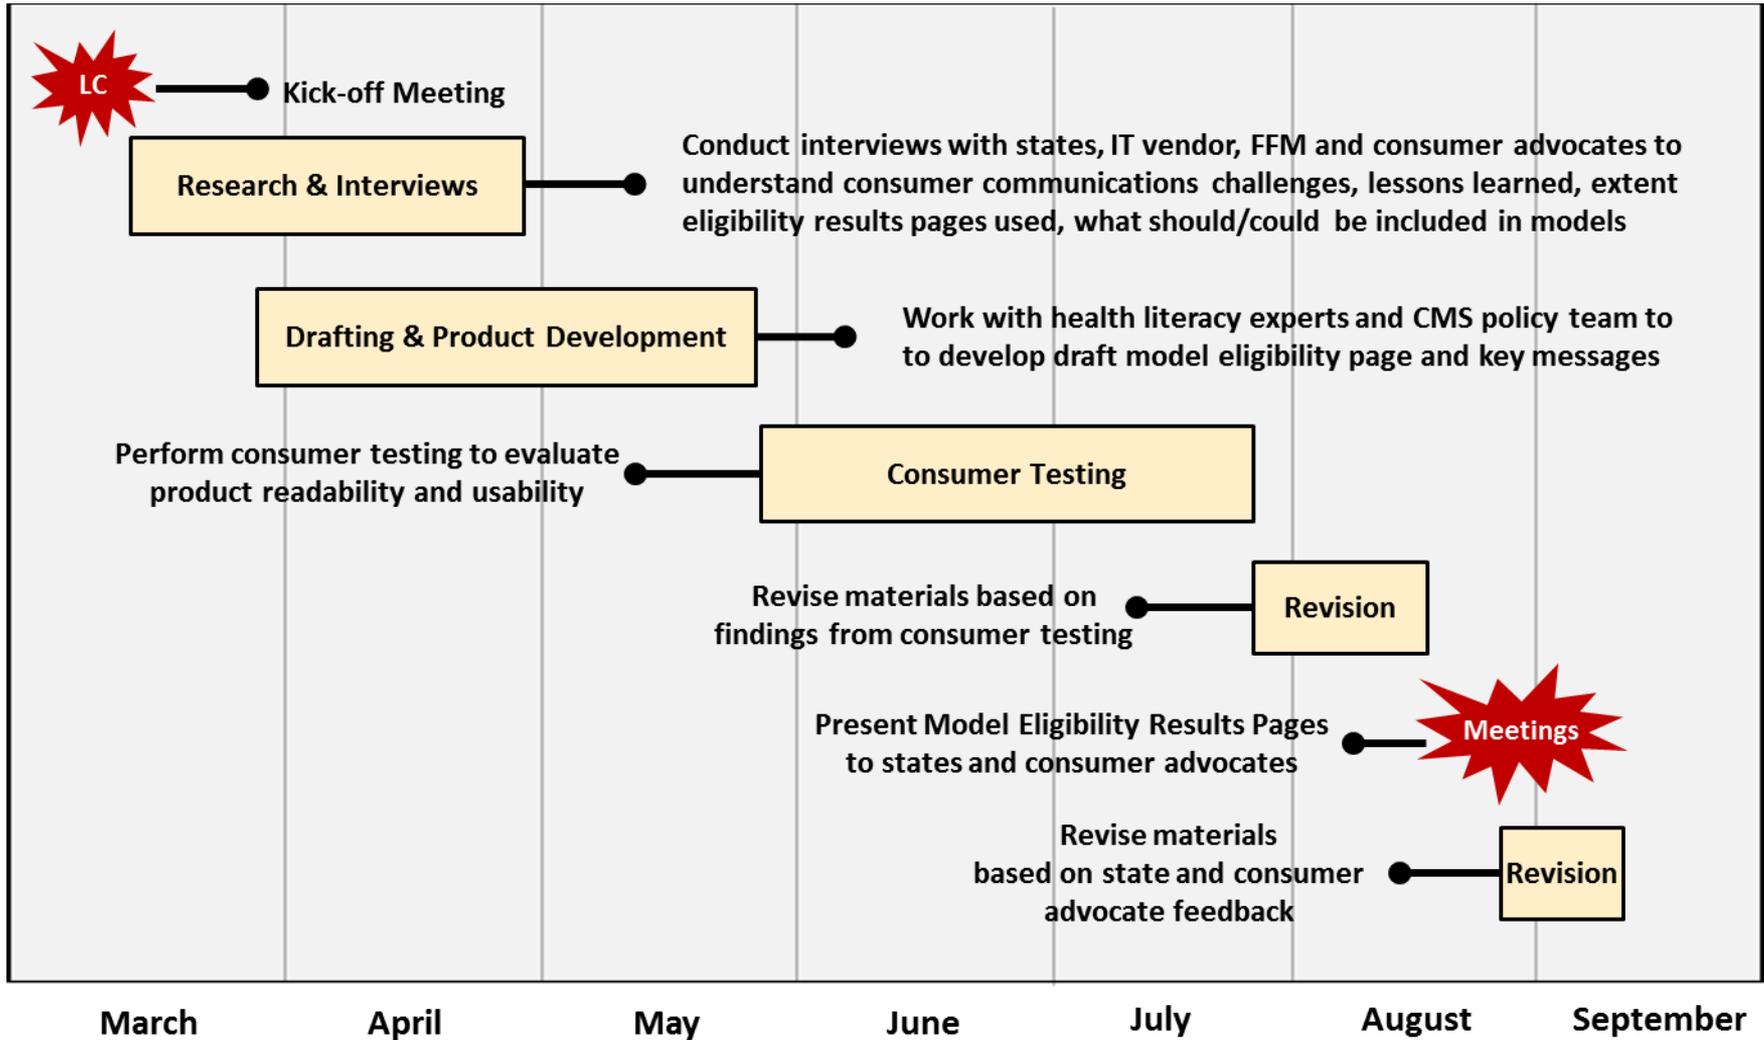

Eligibility Results Page Principles

- ✓ Provide a snapshot on program eligibility
- ✓ Highlight key next steps (e.g., submit additional information, complete additional verification, find a provider, enroll in a health plan, complete Marketplace application)
- ✓ Not intended to replace “full” eligibility notices required under federal law/regulations... but drives consumer to read the notice

To communicate effectively with consumers: refine messaging, develop new formats to present complex information, and create opportunities to reinforce key messages beyond legal notices

Approach to the Project

Developing Model Eligibility Results Pages

The Federally-facilitated Marketplace (FFM) provides consumers with on-screen eligibility results as a way to improve understanding and next steps

- Tested several design approaches with consumers over the last few years
- Implemented an improved eligibility results page, which includes summary of results displayed on screen for consumers, in Fall 2015 just ahead of Marketplace Open Enrollment
- Continue to focus on incremental improvements based on a foundation of consumer testing and feedback.

Feedback on Current Consumer Communications

- Notices still lengthy and confusing – call centers receive many questions related to notices
- Unclear how many consumers are reading notices, states interviewed did not have capability to track whether notices read
- Important to provide access to consumer communications in appropriate literacy levels and variety of languages

Key Areas of Consumer Confusion

- Difficult to understand eligibility determination, next steps and differences between Medicaid, CHIP and the Marketplace coverage
- In FFM states, do not understand Marketplace is a different agency from where application was initiated
- For mixed coverage program families, confusion when receiving notices from different agencies after account transfer

Use, Content and Design of Eligibility Results Pages

- Several states interviewed have eligibility and enrollment dashboards in consumer online accounts, none had full eligibility results pages
- Simplified language on model results page can be applied to current consumer communications immediately (even if state cannot implement results page in short-term)
- Conflicting opinion on how much information to present on results page

Implementation Considerations

- Ability to conduct real-time eligibility determinations and make eligibility notices available immediately (key components of model page framework)
- Resources and time for development
- Rules engine does contain all information
- Use of pop-up windows for any links and cloud saving functionality for mobile users

Collaboration with Health Literacy Experts

16

Engaged MAXIMUS Center for Health Literacy to work closely with the CMS Coverage LC team to develop and consumer test model eligibility results pages

Development

- Created framework, design and layout for eligibility results pages to be leveraged by State Medicaid/CHIP agencies
- Developed content for 8 scenarios using the model informed by legal, policy and operational considerations
- Based language recommendations on industry best practices for readability and usability, and past experience with model eligibility notices and related work

- Model Eligibility Results Page Framework – Organization, design and layout of eligibility results pages.
- Model Eligibility Results Menu and Map – List of message snippets and how they are applied in model eligibility results pages.
- Scenarios – Eights scenarios that demonstrate how states can apply the eligibility results page framework and vary by:
 - Household Composition
 - State Marketplace Model
 - State Medicaid Delivery System Model

Eligibility Results Page Framework: Three-Step Process

Three-step framework maintained across different eligibility scenarios

STEP 1

- Review your eligibility results

- Start with eligibility results
- Remains the same across any scenario

STEP 2

- Read your eligibility letter
or
- Send us the information we need

Depends on whether there is an eligibility determination or if more information is needed

STEP 3

- Access care
or
- Choose health plan
or
- Send us more information
or
- Complete your Marketplace application

Depends on state's Medicaid delivery system and Marketplace model

- 2nd Column: Eligibility determination results
- 3rd Column: Important eligibility details such as coverage start date, ID number, or what to do next

1. Review your eligibility results

Anna Jackson

You do not qualify for Medicaid health coverage.

To learn why you do not qualify, go to Step 2.

But, you still might be able to get health coverage – and help paying for it – through the Health Insurance Marketplace (Marketplace).

The Marketplace is a service where you can shop for and buy affordable private health insurance online, over the phone, or with in-person help. It also provides financial help to people who qualify.

Focus on key eligibility details

- Eligibility results page not intended to replace notice but to succinctly communicate result at a high-level and next steps
- Conscious decision to not include the denial reason since challenging to concisely explain basis of denial and appeals rights; instead, drive consumer to read eligibility notice
- Added definition of Marketplace following consumer testing feedback on consumer confusion

Importance of notice

- Explains what information is in the notice
- Notifies consumer they must download notice in order to move forward

Balancing messages

- For consumers who are eligible for Medicaid in a reasonable opportunity period, they will see a message to send additional information as well as downloading their notice
- This variation prioritizes the message to send proof so consumers can keep their coverage but also highlights that the eligibility notice gives more options for a consumer in sending proof

3. Complete your Marketplace application

You should complete your Marketplace application as soon as you can to see if you can get coverage now.

To complete your application, you can:

- 1. Start a new application. You can go to HealthCare.gov or contact the Call Center at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY: 1-855-889-4325).
 - Create a Marketplace user account online or with a Call Center Representative if you don't have one.
 - Have your eligibility letter with you to help answer questions.
 - Provide the information you gave us already.
 - Answer "yes" when asked if anyone has been found not eligible for Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) in the past 90 days.

Or

- 2. Wait for the letter from the Marketplace. We sent your information to them. The Marketplace is starting an application for you. The letter will tell you how to complete your application with them.

After you complete your application, the Marketplace will tell you if you qualify for health coverage and help paying for it.

The Marketplace will also tell you whether you can get health coverage now or if you have to wait and reapply. If they qualify, most people can get coverage only during a certain time each year called the Open Enrollment Period. If it is not Open Enrollment now, people have to wait until the next Open Enrollment Period.

Some people can get Marketplace health coverage sooner in a Special Enrollment Period. They can do this if they had certain life changes such as getting married, having a baby, or losing Medicaid or other health coverage. They usually have up to 60 days after the date of the life change to apply for coverage. If they miss the deadline to complete their application, they have to wait until the next Open Enrollment Period.

If you have questions or need help completing your application, contact the Marketplace Call Center at 1-800-318-2596 (TTY: 1-855-889-4325). Or go to HealthCare.gov.

Balancing timing considerations

- Conveys time urgency if close to end of Open or Special Enrollment Period
- However, also sets expectations if not during Open Enrollment Period or consumer not eligible for Special Enrollment Period, and consumer cannot enroll immediately

Clear options for completing Marketplace application

- Testing showed that consumers didn't understand or only partially understood how to apply to the Marketplace
- Re-organized key messages to clearly delineate two options for consumer to complete Marketplace application
- Provides specific instructions and link to start new application

3. Complete your Marketplace application

Consumer Testing

Model eligibility results pages were tested with consumers and revised as a result of their feedback

Approach

- Conducted hour-long, 1:1 interviews with 48 adults between ages 23 and 64, who read, write and speak English, and with an education ranging from no formal education to graduate-level education
- Testing sites:
 - City of Alexandria Workforce Development Center
 - PA CareerLink® West Philadelphia
- Consumers reviewed 2 model eligibility results pages that are more complex and covered many of the key messages contained in the remaining model eligibility results pages
 - Individual eligible for Medicaid during reasonable opportunity period and must send additional proof of citizenship; and
 - Children eligible for Medicaid and parent ineligible for Medicaid and transferred to FFM

Consumers interviewed by MAXIMUS Center for Health Literacy team and responded to 36 question interview protocol designed to:

Approach

- Determine if consumers can read and understand key messages and instructions
- Determine if consumers would take action based on key messages and instructions
- Assess consumers' ability to navigate the sample results pages
- Identify challenges or barriers consumers face while using the sample results pages
- Understand consumers' overall impressions of the sample results pages

Model eligibility page framework and sample pages tested well

✓ Easy to read and use

42 of 48 participants' first impressions were that the sample results pages looked easy to read and use, 46 recognized the purpose of the results pages, and 45 understood the tracking bar navigation aid.

"It looks very easy and simple. It's telling you step by step very specifically what you need to do"

✓ Driving to the eligibility notice

46 participants fully or partially understood why they needed to download their eligibility notice.

"Eligibility letter tells you more about your decision and how they made it... You can't go to Step 3 unless you do it."

✓ Clicking over scrolling

39 participants preferred clicking through three short pages to scrolling over one long page.

"I would prefer clicking because scrolling is too much information on one sheet. Clicking takes you step by step and you will not get lost in all the information. It would be too much at one time."

✓ Confusion with Marketplace

Only 19 participants were familiar with and understood Marketplace.

"I have no idea. It sounds like something on Wall Street."

✓ Confusion with options for completing a Marketplace application and why consumers might want to start a new application

- 11 participants did not understand or only partially understood their options for completing a Marketplace application.
- Once participants understood they may get coverage sooner, 40 preferred to start new application rather than wait for account transfer.

I'd rather do it myself because I've carved out the time now, and I need answers now, and the waiting is frustrating.

After you complete your application, the Marketplace will tell you if you qualify for health coverage and help paying for it. The Marketplace will also tell you whether you can get health coverage now or if you have to wait and reapply. If they qualify, most people can get coverage only during a certain time each year called the Open Enrollment Period. If it is not Open Enrollment now, people have to wait until the next Open Enrollment Period. Some people can get Marketplace health coverage sooner in a Special Enrollment Period. They can do this if they had certain life changes such as getting married, having a baby, or losing Medicaid or other health coverage. They usually have up to 60 days after the date of the life change to apply for coverage. If they miss the deadline to complete their application, they have to wait until the next Open Enrollment Period.

State Implementation Considerations

- States' capability to generate online eligibility results pages dependent on capabilities for online application, real-time eligibility determination and eligibility notice generation
- Even if unable to implement eligibility results pages fully, states could leverage model eligibility results pages for best practices for wording, design and layout
- States could also apply framework and messages for the development of eligibility results pages for additional eligibility scenarios
- States may wish to consider enabling download and saving of eligibility results page so consumers can have the page available for future reference

Health Literacy Best Practices

Content

- Organization from the consumers' perspective
- Key messages first and prominent
- Information chunked into one-topic paragraphs
- Meaningful, descriptive headings
- Definitions for necessary technical terms
- Streamlined information

Language

- Clear, simple wording for headings
- Friendly tone
- Active voice
- Parallel construction
- Short, simple paragraphs and sentences
- Common, familiar words

Design

- Font size equivalent to 12 point Times New Roman for the paragraph text with leading (space between lines) of 150%
- Size variation between the paragraph text and the different levels of headers
- Short line lengths, between 10 and 16 words
- Key words in bold, sparingly and in appropriate places
- Left alignment on all of the paragraph text
- Contact information on every page
